

NATIONAL OFFICE LOCATION CHOSEN

The Alliance selects Reynoldsburg, Ohio, as the site of its new National Office.

February 9, 2021

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

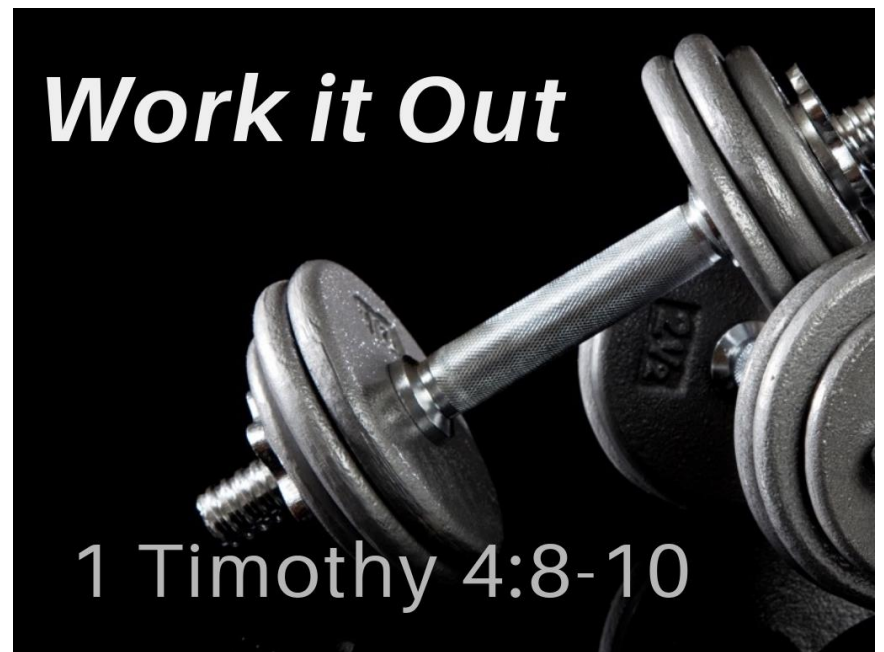

Colorado Springs, Colo. — The Christian and Missionary Alliance (The Alliance) has selected Reynoldsburg, Ohio, an eastern suburb of Columbus, as the location for its new National Office.

Alliance leaders visited 90 properties in three cities (Columbus, Cleveland, and Indianapolis), before selecting a property location in Reynoldsburg. The city was chosen based on a variety of criteria and on a shared vision with the City of Reynoldsburg for development plans that will be of benefit to both The Alliance and the local community.

While there has been some speculation around potential plans, the multi-year development of the property will include not only office space for the staff but also an event center to be used by both the National Office and broader community for events and gatherings.

Be sure to watch President John Stumbo's March video blog, to be filmed on location from Reynoldsburg, where he will explain in greater detail the criteria used in selecting the site and its potential to serve both the Reynoldsburg and greater Columbus communities. The March blog will be available Friday, March 12.

The National Office will be relocating this summer from its current location in Colorado Springs, where it has served the greater Alliance family for more than thirty years.
